What do you think school needs to do to improve? <sup>12</sup> responses

N/A

- Inconsistent dealings re behaviours
- It hasn't affected us directly, but some bullying issues could be dealt with more firmly. It's not a massive problem but it is about living the Christian ideal.
- Better communication, having a single news letter that goes out weekly or a single multiuser platform instead of constant emails and text messages with numerous platforms for making payments, accessing information and completing consent forms. The number of communications through the course of the day makes it easy for something to be missed
- homework not always tailored to individual need
- n/a
- I can't think of anything the school needs to improve on.
- Homework in year 5 and 6 needs to be more challenging
- Nothing
- At the moment no problems - if any crop up I know that the school will be happy to listen and help
- nothing not already discussed
- nothing comes to mind

My daughter loves being at bretherton and since moving there, she enjoys school more than ever. She is so happy and the school ensures she is challenged appropriately in her work. Thank you to staff for all their hard work.

The school is a very special place in our small village.

I feel extremely pleased that [redacted] moved to Bretherton , although I was not unhappy with his previous schools education at the time - he seems to be able to thrive better here , is happier and doing really well . Thankyou for helping him settle in during a very unsettled pandemic !

Bretherton is an excellent school. Without exception, all staff strive for perfection. They are dedicated and hard-working and clearly care about the kids. I think you can trust them to use their initiative more.

during the pandemic we spent a huge amount of time at home supervising learning. We feel the school could have ofered a wider ability for 1 to 1 learning ie pre recorded lessons

My child is very happy & content as school. The school staff are friendly & approachable. We are really pleased with the progress he is making & he really enjoys coming to school. It is clear that staff work really hard to make school an exciting & welcoming place for him to learn. Thank you. Thank you so much to all the staff for your hard work.
