What is Phonics?

Phonics is the process which we teach children to read and write.

Match sounds to letters...

We teach children to match sounds with individual letters or groups of letters which we call graphemes.

Blend the sounds together...

Children are taught to blend the sounds of letters together to read. They can start to read words such as 'tap' and 'pat' after learning the sounds for the letters t, p, a and s.

Then things become more complicated...

The 26 letters of the alphabet and combinations of these letters make 44 speech sounds in English. The 44 sounds (phonemes) are spelt by 144 different letter combinations (graphemes). For example, the sound A is spelt 5 different ways ay (play), ai (train). The system is not logical and is difficult for children to learn. It simply is the result of changes in English pronunciation and spelling over hundreds of years.

Colour helps children to see the sound that different spellings make...

Phonics is simplified and easier to understand if we categorise the speech sounds into 10 groups and use the Monsters as a categorisation. Each monster has a different colour. That colour represents that way of spelling the sound.

Why does Colour and Monsters help Children to Learn?

Children learn through the assignment of colour and the linkage of the sound, as well as seeing the colour. This created more ways of remembering the spelling and simplifies the learning process.
